

My To David
Best Lawyer

1995-2013

Majestic

Shocking order to Mo's eatery

'Can't use Mariano, he'll attract ghetto people'

A baseball player in a Yankees uniform, likely Mariano Rivera, is shown in a photo. The photo is part of a newspaper article.

Suit: Realty big's racist gripes led to closure

By [Name] and [Name]

NEW YORK — A lawsuit filed in federal court on Tuesday accuses a real estate giant of closing a business because of racist gripes from a former executive. The suit, filed in the Southern District of New York, names the National Real Estate Association (NREA) and its former president, [Name].

The suit says the plaintiff was a former executive of the NREA who was fired in 2008. The plaintiff claims that the NREA and its former president conspired to close the plaintiff's business because of the plaintiff's race. The suit also claims that the NREA and its former president engaged in a conspiracy to discriminate against the plaintiff on the basis of race.

The suit was filed in the Southern District of New York, which is the federal court that handles cases involving the NREA. The suit is the latest in a series of lawsuits filed against the NREA and its former president. The NREA has a long history of discrimination against minority groups, and the suit is seen as a significant challenge to the organization's practices.